FM 2007 is the first game to feature FM Manager and FM Hero Manager, both single-player modes. Along with the main series, Football Manager 2007 is the last game to feature a Career mode, and it was the last game in the series to feature a box cover. Contents Contents of Football Manager 2007 Football Manager 2007 is a 2006 football management simulation game. FM2007 is the third game in the Football Manager series overall, after Football Manager 2005 and Football Manager 2006. The game features an improved user interface and character creator from Football Manager 2006. The character creator is the most extensively developed aspect of the game and is available to both managers and club owners. The new user interface and character creator are based on the image of a human face. The aim is for the player to be able to project themselves in that way when they are managing a club. FM2007 is the first game in the series to feature FM Manager and FM Hero Manager, both single-player modes. FM Manager is an improved version of the main series' Manager and allows a player to control one team in a league of up to eight divisions, and does not have as many in-depth managerial and team management features. FM Hero Manager is a more advanced manager mode that allows a player to control their own team and compete in international tournaments and league competitions. Football Manager 2007 is the last game in the series to feature a Career mode, and the first to feature an accurate transfer market. A number of games before FM 2007, such as Football Manager, had a simplified transfer market that allowed clubs to purchase players for a set fee, regardless of how good they actually were. Football Manager 2007 introduces a correct transfer market, and the players are rated on the new MP Ratings, which aim to rate a player's technical skill and his attitude on and off the pitch. Football Manager 2007 features the following game modes: Career - The standard game mode where the player manages a football team. Manager - FM2007 features three different manager types, the standard Manager, the FM Manager and the FM Hero Manager. A Manager is a controlling character who manages a team by making use of statistical and financial information. Training - Training allows the player to select a practice session with a selected player. Matchday - Manage your team throughout the entire season, week by week. Match - The player can view match statistics and enjoy some of the features of the simulation engine. Play against the 82157476af
